The Photoshop Setup Wizard The Photoshop Setup Wizard (see Figure 5-5) is a program that's part of the program package. It allows you to configure Photoshop to your preferences. It lets you select the default color and font settings, as well as the number of images it can open at once, how it will begin to open a file, where it will save your files, and more. You can access this Setup Wizard via the Photoshop menu or the taskbar's Photoshop menu. Figure 5-5: To use this handy utility, select the Photoshop Setup Wizard from the taskbar or the Photoshop menu. Understanding the Healing Brush The Healing Brush (see Figure 5-6) is a special tool that can help Photoshop users repair images and remove blemishes from photographs. The Healing Brush is in the toolbox under the Brush menu (it appears in the top left of the workspace) and is available as a button on the Tools panel as well (see the left side of Figure 5-6). Figure 5-6: The Healing Brush gives you great control over how images are repaired. The Healing Brush can perform a few different functions:

- Erase: You use this tool to remove unwanted spots of color, such as blobs or marks on photos. You can also use the Eraser tool to remove the entire spot of color that you intend to erase (all except the pixels that are below the selected area).
- Dodge and Burn: The Dodge and Burn tools are used to lighten areas that are too dark or darken areas that are too light. The Dodge tool changes the color of an area to create a lighter shade, and the Burn tool changes the color of an area to create a darker shade.
- Smudge: The Smudge tool applies pressure to colors in an area, softening the area's edges. The Healing Brush makes Photoshop an ideal tool for image repair, especially if you're dealing with defects that aren't too big. The Healing Brush repairs areas of hair, fur, or wrinkles, and it also can be used to even out skin tones. You can remove the skin from an animal photo and make the skin tones consistent on the whole image. You can use the Healing Brush to repair blemishes or defects and to make any small objects in a photo look more realistic. For the best results, you want to work with a solid color, either from a single object in a

The 20 best creative apps for Photoshop Best features Quick Selection tool Keyboard shortcuts Smart guides Adjustments The Quick Selection tool is located in the same place as the content aware fill tool. It works in a similar way but is easier to use. It can easily be used to select the whole image, a region of an image, or part of an image. Keyboard shortcuts are preferred by many. They save time and make image editing quicker. There are two groups of keyboard shortcuts, the left and the right. The left is for the top menu bar, the right is for adjusting the settings of the tools. Smart Guides are guides that work similar to ink pens that define the best place to make an image edit. If you click the eyedropper to show the guidelines they turn red and disappear when you are done making an edit. Adjustments The Adjustment Panel contains many adjustments, sliders, brushes and other options. The Adjustments Panel is located on the left side of the workspace as shown in the image. The image on the right has been adjusted in the Adjustments Panel. Image Editing Many of the image editing tools have variants in the Elements version. They have the same name with a 1 instead of a 2 after it. The use of the 2 to identify the professional version is not that important, the 1 variant works just as well. Effect of protein, carbohydrate, and fat intake on body composition and physical fitness in healthy children. Body composition and physical fitness were examined in 29 healthy children (13 females, 16 males, age range 9 to 14 yr) over 5 wk to determine the effect of altering macronutrient intake on these parameters. The macronutrient distribution of the diets consisted of a control group (C) of four 20-hr periods (6 wk) with a semiequidrial formula, and three experimental groups (E) that were fed six 20-hr periods (12 wk) with the same formula. The diets contained 1.3% energy from protein, 33% energy from carbohydrate, and 56% energy from fat, and the caloric ratios for all diets were 2, 1, 0.8, and 0.6 for protein, carbohydrate, fat, and kcal.kg⁻¹.day⁻¹, respectively. After 12 wk of feeding, mean percent fat, lean body mass, and fat-free mass were significantly lower in experimental group E than in control group C (26.3 ± 1.6%, 52.0 ± 1.7%, and 71.8 ± 1.6% vs. 29.1 ± 1.0%, 51.1 ± 1.5%, and 70.9 ± 1.4%, respectively; P less than 0.05). Percent body fat, sum of skinfolds, and sum of seven skinfolds were similar in group E and group C. In contrast, percent fat, lean body mass, and sum of seven skinfolds were significantly higher in group C than in group E (19.0 ± 2.2%, 72.3 ± 2.3%, and 146.3 ± 3.2 vs. 11.2 ± 2.0%, 75.0 ± 2.0%, and 156.6 ± 3.6%, respectively; P less than 0.05). Although the change in percent body fat was not significant in this study, the mean percent fat in three skinfold areas increased by 8.1% and 4.0% in females and males, respectively. The results from this study indicate that dietary protein, carbohydrate, and fat intake and the macronutrient ratio of the diet should be considered when attempting to maximize body composition and physical fitness in healthy children. Q: Pick up SSRS report by its name I have a requirement where I need to pick up the report by its name. It is not necessary to send its location to my application. I could pass a data parameter to run report, but I need to make sure that the data parameter is not the same name which I use to call the report. For example I have Report1 and Report2. If I send Report1.Name as a data parameter I can't run report again, because this parameter is already used. I could pass the report name as string and try to convert it to data parameter, but a report could have more than one parameter and I am not sure what I should pass to convert the string to data parameter in order to do the trick. A: One option would be to add a hidden field to your report. Then you could get the value from that field and then pass the value to the report. [Prevention of renal damage in patients undergoing chronic hemodialysis. Comparison between traditional and laser alexandrite treatment]. Evaluation of laser therapy in the prevention of hemodialysis-associated renal damage. In a randomized, controlled, prospective study, 60 patients, treated with hemodialysis, were divided into 2 groups, according to the nephritis treatment. Group A received traditional treatment, and Group B received treatment with laser alexandrite. Group B is the control group and was compared with group A. Patients were assessed regarding the evolution of the glomerular filtration rate (CGI) and the time required to reach the minimum value of the CG after dialysis. In group A, 22 patients were included and 2 patients were lost to follow-up. In group B, 27 patients were included. The mean of time to reach the minimum of CG in group B was 85.2 minutes; in group A, only one patient (4.5%) reached the minimum value at the 60th minute of hemodialysis. In group B, 10.5% of the patients had chronic renal failure at the moment of inclusion, which increased up to 25% at the end of the study. No significant differences were observed between the 2 groups regarding the CG in the initial and final assessments. The laser treatment had a positive therapeutic effect in the prevention of renal damage in the patients with secondary renal failure. Ask HN: How Do I Verify
